

ROURKES WIND UP YEAR WITH GLORY

Cop Two Games from St. Joseph and Thus Hang Onto Position in First Division.

BLODGETT HITS A HOME RUN

One Jake Houltes, one of Jack Holland's more or less distinguished athletus, took three swings at Lou North's baffling slants in the seventh round of the second game at Rourke park yesterday and Umpire Jack Ryan, with one gesture of his right hand, waved Mr. Boultes out and wrote "thirty" on the western league elebrated the occasion by handing the Drummers a couple of wallopings and thus clinging to the cherished fourth place of the first division. The first event was a punk fray, which went to the Omaha crew, 8 to 6, after much fusning and fuming. The game was copped in the eighth round, when Earl Smith tore off a triple with two on bases and the count deadlocked. The second game was an easy victory for the home folks. Jake Boultes, who an't even chuck a straight hall, started hostilities for the opposition, but was soon jerked to let a youth named Keifer twiri. The final count in this combat was
